

McKinsey & Company

William (Bill) Huyett
Director
McKinsey & Company
Darden Class of 1982

Bill serves U.S., Europe, and Asian companies, primarily in the pharmaceutical, biotech, and medical device industries. His functional interests include basic research and product design/commercialization. He is active in transactions, acquisitions, and divestitures and in how CEOs and boards lead both major corporate reconfigurations and transaction-based growth.

He is one of the leaders of McKinsey's Corporate Finance practice and is co-author of the book Value: The Four Cornerstones of Corporate Finance, recently published by Wiley. Bill is part of the editorial board of McKinsey on Finance. In addition, he serves on the Shareholders' Council, the Firm's board of directors.

Bill has served on the boards of several basic science institutions, including Rockefeller University and the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole. He is also on the boards of the Darden Foundation, the Boston YMCA, and the Concord Museum.

Bill graduated from the University in 1977 with a degree in Electrical Engineering. He is a member of the Raven Society. In Charlottesville, he picked up an interest in architecture, the Blue Ridge Mountains, and Lauren, now his wife. They have five children and a lot of animals. They live in Concord, Massachusetts. He likes sailing on Cape Cod, mountaineering, and skiing.
